

A CASE STUDY

Assessing IoT Growth Opportunities

Building a Playbook to Strategically Target a Desired Market

CHALLENGE

A client had built a successful business in automotive Internet of Things technology, selling products to automotive OEMs. The company felt it could continue to grow by taking on even more OEM market share. It needed a plan for further growth and came to GLG to assess opportunities beyond its existing client base.

THE GLG APPROACH

Working with the client, GLG determined that the company needed to develop a playbook for its sales force to target other auto OEMs. We selected a B2B researcher with more than 25 years of experience conducting focus groups and in-depth interviews with engineers, developers, architects, CIOs, and distributors.

GLG also recruited the audience that would participate in the study, making sure to choose a meaningful sample size. We sourced 35 experts from relevant backgrounds, including suppliers to OEMs, vehicle navigation and infotainment experts, automotive executives, and systems integrators. GLG identified professionals with previous work experience at the client's key target OEM companies.

The project lead conducted interviews, synthesized findings into a comprehensive playbook, and presented the study's conclusions to the company's senior leadership team.

OUTCOME

The client used GLG's playbook to help their sales teams target the right OEMs with the right messaging, and they continued their search for further growth areas with greater clarity.
